

TWO BROTHERS ARE DROWNED IN RIVER

Sons of Mr. and Mrs. John Robinson, Age 3 and 5, Lost Their Lives in Muscatatuck.

WERE WITH FATHER IN FIELD

Children Had Been Told to Return Home But Wandered to Banks of Creek.

Two sons of Mr. and Mrs. John Robinson, of Vernon township, were drowned Thursday morning in the Muscatatuck river near Doty's Mill. The boys, who were three and five years of age, had gone in the morning with their father to a corn field where he was working. About eight o'clock he instructed them to return home which was only a short distance from the field.

The corn field lies along the river and instead of going directly home as the boys started they went to the bank of the river and in some manner fell into the water and were drowned. Mr. Robinson believed that his sons were home and did not know of the accident until he returned home about noon. Mrs. Robinson thought that the boys were with their father, and had not thought it necessary to make inquiry as to their whereabouts.

When it was known that the children had not returned home the parents, with the assistance of the neighbors began a search for them, and the bodies were found in the evening about five o'clock in the water close to the bank.

It is not known how the accident happened, but it is believed that they were playing along the bank and that they fell into the water which was about five feet in depth. The father and mother are heart broken over the sad accident.

The coroner was notified and held an inquest, but as no witnesses were present when the accident occurred only circumstantial evidence could be obtained.

NEW PARSONAGE.

Purchased by Congregation of St. Paul Church.

A committee from the St. Paul's church has closed a deal for the purchase of Alpha Cox's residence at 220 West Sixth street and it will be used as a parsonage. An addition will be built, furnace put in and other improvements made. Mr. Cox expects to vacate the property within a month. The parsonage at present is located at the rear of the church, the Pastor Rev. H. R. Boech, residing there.

BUSINESS INCREASES

Farmers Insurance Association in Good Condition.

President John Q. Foster, of the Farmers Insurance Association and the auditing committee, consisting of Frank Brown of Crothersville, O. M. Foster, of Vernon township, and O. E. Carter from east of the city, went to Brownstown this morning.

The committee will make the regular examination of the books of Holmes Robertson, secretary; G. C. Borchering, treasurer; and W. H. Daly, manager, and their report will be submitted to the directors at their meeting in October. The association has been organized about seven years, and is now carrying about $700,000 insurance. It is in a very prosperous condition, its business increasing each year.

INDIANA TEACHERS

Will Hold Meeting Earlier This Year Than Usual.

The executive committee of the State Teachers' Association met in Indianapolis yesterday to arrange the program for the next meeting of the association. The program is only tentative and will not be announced for several weeks. The State Teachers' Association will be held Thursday and Friday, Dec. 22 and 23, this year, one week earlier than usual. The change was made in order to clear the way for the American Historical Association, which meets in Indianapolis the week after Christmas. It was thought Indianapolis could not entertain the two meetings at the same time, since each will be attended by several hundred persons.

DIED.

SHORTRIDGE. — William Shortridge, a well known citizen of Medora, died Thursday evening of erysipelas of the arm. He had been ill about a week, but for the last few days his condition was critical. The deceased was a highly respected citizen and had many friends. He is survived by a wife and ten children.

The funeral services held Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock from the family residence, conducted by Elder J. M. Cross. Burial at Heighon Hill cemetery.

Indiana Man Honored.

Albert Roberts, of Jefferson county, was in this city this morning. He reports that his son, Clarence Roberts, who located in New Mexico a few years ago for the practice of law, was recently appointed a supreme judge in that new state. He was also recently elected a delegate to the constitutional convention. Judge Roberts has a number of friends and acquaintances in this city.

ENGINE NUMBER 13 FIGURED IN WRECK

Southbound Pennsylvania Passenger Train Strikes a B. & O. S-W. Freight at Crossing.

SIGNAL OBSTRUCTED BY CAR

Capt. James McGregor, Engineer of Passenger Train, Will Soon Retire From Service.

Engine No. 13 pulling the south bound Pennsylvania passenger train No. 32 ran into a B. & O. S-W. freight train at the crossing about 9:50 o'clock Thursday evening. The passenger train which is scheduled to arrive here at 9:05 was running about forty-five minutes late, and was in charge of Engineer James McGregor and Conductor Charles Robinson.

The engine which Capt. McGregor has run for a number of years was transferred to another division and the locomotive which he had was one from the Vandalia division. The engine was much larger than that to which he was accustomed and the lever operating the air brakes was in a different position than in his own engine.

When the passenger train approached the crossing the engineer was unable to see the red signal light on the gate which swings across the main track, as it was on the south side of the B. & O. tracks and obstructed from his view by a box car. The engine was coasting along the track, and when it came within thirty feet of the crossing Capt. McGregor reached at the usual place for the air break throttle, forgetting for the moment that the engine was not his own. The lever is about eighteen inches higher than it is in his own engine and by the time he had the air applied he was unable to avoid the accident.

The engine struck the cars so easily that the shock of the collision was hardly noticed by the passengers. Two of the box cars were pushed off the track, but were not damaged to a great extent. One of the cars contained shelled corn, a small part of which was lost. The other was an empty one. The engine on the passenger train was not seriously damaged and completed the trip after slight repairs were made here. The air pipe was broken and the front of the engine was somewhat damaged.

The B. & O. S-W. wrecking crew was called and side track cleared so that the passenger train could pass the place of the accident. The wrecking crew used the derrick in placing one of the cars on the track and by midnight the track was clear.

Shortly after the accident an interurban car on the Indianapolis & Louisville traction line came up to the crossing on Chestnut street but was unable to go to the station as it could not pass the B. & O. track. A number of men and boys uncoupled the cars at Poplar street and by pushing them back finally opened the Chestnut street crossing, before the train was taken to the yards.

Captain James McGregor, the engineer of the Pennsylvania engine is the oldest active engineer on this division and will make but one more trip before he is retired on a pension. He was seventy years of age on September 11th, and has been in the service of the company for fifty years. During the years of service with the Pennsylvania company, he has experienced a number of serious wrecks but for none of them has he been held responsible. The officials of the company offered to retire him the first of the month, but he refused to resign before the expiration of the term of fifty years and will remain on duty until October 1. His accident Thursday evening will not prevent him from retiring at the time set and receiving all the benefits of the pension.

The Chicago train, No. 7, which arrives here at 11:08 p. m., was delayed about an hour while the cars were being placed on the track. The train remained on the main track near the block house for some time and pulled up in front of the passenger station on the siding just before the wrecking crew set the derrick. The wrecking crew, however, did not give the passenger train the right of way and the track was blocked for an hour.

AVERAGE SALARY

Of Christain Minister is Over $600 Per Year.

According to a new government bulletin there were 164,830 Christian ministers in the United States in 1909; they were increasing at the rate of 5,000 a year, and they were paid an average salary of $663. It is estimated that this year $100,000,000 will be paid in this country for ministers' salaries, and twice as much more for maintenance of churches, missions, extensions and congregational expenses. Three hundred millions is a fair sum of money—twice the cost of the pension list; more than our annual payment for new automobiles.

ACTIVE FIGHT WILL BE MADE

By John H. Kamman, Fourth District Republican Nominee For Congress.

WILL CANVAS WHOLE DISTRICT

Party Made Wise Selection.—Sketch of His Life.—A Successful Attorney.

In nominating John H. Kamman of this city for congress, the Republicans of the Fourth district made a wise selection. Four years ago when he was the nominee for this office he was defeated by 1860 votes, an excellent showing considering that the district has some years gone Democratic by more than double that number. The splendid race he made in 1906 prompted the workers of the district to urge that he make the fight again this year and resulted in his nomination at North Vernon last Saturday. In accepting, he pledged his best endeavors to win in November.

JOHN H. KAMMAN.

He will make an aggressive campaign visiting, speaking in every county in the district. He will undoubtedly be a strong force in the campaign and will be a strength and influence for the state, legislative and county tickets. His ability to speak German will be a great help to him in his canvass of the district. Mr. Kamman is of German parentage and was born on a farm near Holland, Dubois county, December 15, 1867 being the oldest of nine children. He attended the district schools and later taught school for several years in his home county. During vacations he worked on the farm and has always retained his interest in farming and at the present time he owns a good farm near Seymour. In 1896 he graduated from the law school at Indiana University and the same year began the practice of his profession in this city. By his ability and hard work he has built up a practice that is one of the best in the county.

For six years he served as city attorney. He was married May 20, 1897 to Miss Mary Tormoehlen of Dubois county and they have one daughter. He is a member and trustee of the German Lutheran church of Seymour. In this, his home county, Mr. Kamman stands very high. He is a plain, honest, warm hearted gentleman and has the respect of his fellow citizens without regard to party. If he is elected the Fourth district will have a hard working and capable representative in Washington.

Good Show.

The theatrical production, "Shadowed by Three," which was given at the Majestic Thursday evening, was witnessed by a good crowd. The company gave the play in a splendid manner and was much enjoyed by those attending. The management of the Majestic is arranging to present some excellent shows this winter, and is now in communication with several of the best companies playing in smaller cities.

SUNDAY BASEBALL GAME.

Crothersville Team Will Play One of Leading Clubs in State.

The management of the Crothersville "Blues" is especially pleased with the game which they have scheduled for Sunday afternoon. The Jackson county boys have won from practically every team in Southern Indiana, but the manager found one team down at Jeffersonville which was claiming the championship, so a game was scheduled without delay. The team is composed of the employees of the Acme Flouring Mills and have lost but one game this season.

The local "fans" are anxiously awaiting the game for they believe that they will be given a real exhibition of base ball. The traction company will run its special cars for the game.

East bound train, No. 4 on the B. & O. S-W. was one hour late this morning; cause, bad engine. Southbound train No. 6 on the Pennsylvania line was three hours late; cause, bad connections. Southbound train No. 1 on the Southern Indiana was on time; cause unknown.

SUMMER ENDED

Fall Season Begins Today With Ideal Weather.

Yesterday was the last day of summer. According to the dictionary, the almanac, the encyclopedia and the oldest inhabitant the season of autumn, commonly called fall, begins September 23, and continues until December 23. Today the day and night should be of equal length and then the nights are longer than the days until the seasons swing around again.

In some sections there were heavy storms the first of the week and it would not be surprising if there was more of the same soon. The fall season opened in Seymour however with ideal weather.

In addition to the change of the seasons, the harvest moon is here. This term is applied because the moon is in its particular position about the time of the close of harvest in England. The astronomical explanation is that the small angle made by the moon's orbit with the horizon causes the moon to rise about the same hour for several nights.

DAMAGE SUITS

Against Cement Co. Settled Out of Court.

The Louisville Cement Company Thursday compromised two cases that grew out of the accident at Speeds, August 31, when three men lost their lives. The amount paid by the company is not stated, but the bonds in each case are $3,000, and it is understood that is the amount of each judgment.

Cora E. Janaway as administratrix of the estate of John Janaway, sued the Louisville Cement Company for $3,000 damages and Laura Townsend administratrix of the estate of Thomas L. Townsend, sued the same company for $3,000. The pleadings were limited to an answer in denial in each action, which placed them at issue, and a finding previously agreed on out of court was declared.

MAY VENUE CASE

To Break Will of Mrs. Emma Godfrey From Bartholomew County.

An effort is being made to have the suit filed by Harvey W. Godfrey against his sister-in-law, Mrs. Laura Ella Ruddick, to break the will made by his late wife, venue from Bartholomew county. Mrs. Ruddick has filed the motion to venue the case but it is expected that Mr. Godfrey will make an attempt to have the trial held at Columbus.

Mrs. Godfrey left all of her property to her sister, with the exception of a small bequest to her husband, and he alleges unsoundness of mind and undue influence when she made her will.

Alaska's Popular Executive Was Formerly a Newspaper Man.

THE OPTIMISTIC T. R. SAYS HE HAS WON OUT

Declares "Progressives" Will Control Saratoga Convention.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Sept. 23.—It is the candid opinion of Mr. Roosevelt that the progressives have practically won the fight for control of the Saratoga convention. He says that he thinks he is reasonably safe in saying that they will have a majority of at least 100. This means that Roosevelt will be temporary chairman of the convention, for he has said that if his friends wish it he will make the fight. It means that he considers the old guard licked.

The expression of prophecy on the part of the colonel followed a political conference of several leaders who came to Sagamore Hill. They went over the whole situation from beginning to end and were unanimously agreed that what Roosevelt said was right. The reports of upstate victories for the progressives within the past few days have been particularly pleasing to the colonel. He is especially gratified that the old guard is being repudiated in a good many of its own strongholds. He said that he knows what the platform will be only in a very general way. It has not been outlined, even tentatively, yet. No slate has been marked.

Tried to Wreck Journalists' Train.

Torreyon, Mex., Sept. 23.—An attempt was made to wreck the special train bearing forty American and Canadian journalists at the station of Guadalupe, South Zacatecas, on their way to the City of Mexico. Nearing a switch, the engineer discovered a pile of rocks on the track, and upon further investigation it was found that the switch had been thrown open.

EVER HAVE IT?

If You Have, The Statement of This Seymour Citizen Will Interest You

Ever have a "low-down" pain in the back?

In the "small," right over the hips? That's the home of backache.

It's caused by sick kidneys.

That's why Doan's Kidney Pills cure it.

Seymour people endorse this. Read a case of it:

E. L. Hinkle, 415 Laurel Street, Seymour, Ind., says: "In 1900 I was on the verge of Bright's disease. I had sharp pains in my back that often radiated throughout my body and I was hardly able to walk. I rested poorly and was annoyed by too frequent passages of the kidney secretions. After doctoring for over a year without being helped, Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me by a friend, who had used them with good results. I procured a supply and the contents of a few boxes cured me. As I have never had a recurrence of kidney trouble, Doan's Kidney Pills have my heartiest endorsement."

SKIN AFFECTIONS

Whether on Infant or Grown Person

Cured by Zemo and Zemo Soap.

"An Unusual Offer"

The A. J. Pellens Drug Store says to every person, be it man, woman or child, who has an irritated, tender or itching skin to come to our store and procure a bottle of ZEMO and a cake of ZEMO soap and if you are not entirely satisfied with results, come back and get your money. So confident are we of the efficacy of this clean, simple treatment, that we make you this unusual offer.

ZEMO is a clear liquid for external use that has cured so many cases of eczema, pimples, dandruff and other forms of skin diseases. ZEMO and ZEMO soap are the most economical as well as the cleanest and most effective treatment for affections of skin or scalp, whether on infant or grown person.

SURPRISE.

Miss Hulda Anderson is making quite an extended visit with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Welliver, of Redington.

"Uncle" James Lisle, who has been crippled with rheumatism for the past year, was able to go to church Sunday night.

Charles M. Anderson and Russell Whitcomb are attending high school at Brownstown, the former having been transferred from Hamilton township.

Home Perry and wife attended the silver wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Swengel, of Azalia, Sunday.

Laura Phegley and Carrie Findley are attending high school at Cortland this year.

Jacob Wetzel has purchased the Susan Elkins property in Surprise, and moved into it last week.

Frank Hinton moved to the Jacob Brooks property in Surprise Saturday.

Saved a Soldier's Life.

Facing death from shot and shell in the civil war was more agreeable to J. A. Stone, of Kemp, Tex., than facing it from what the doctors said was consumption. "I contracted a stubborn cold," he writes, "that developed a cough that stuck to me in spite of all remedies for years. My weight ran down to 130 pounds. Then I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery, which completely cured me. I now weigh 178 pounds." For Coughs, Colds, Lagrippe, Asthma, Hemorrhage, Hoarseness, Croup, Whooping Cough and lung trouble, it's supreme. 50c, $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by Andrews-Schwenk Drug Co.

DUDLEYTOWN.

George Klosterman, Jr., who has been in Iowa for about a year, returned home last Friday.

Henry Krumme, of this place, had a very sick child last week, but under the prompt and careful treatment of Dr. Emson the child is now in a fair way of recovery.

"Grandma" Wehrkamp, whose illness has been mentioned in these columns, is some better at this writing.

Mr. Johnson, president of the Seymour National Bank, and Mr. Masters, ex-postmaster of Seymour, were here last Friday on business for the building and loan association of Seymour.

August Bobb, Sr., aged about eighty-eight years, is very low with paralysis of the throat and is not expected to live.

Stubbness as Mules

are liver and bowels sometimes seems to balk without cause. Then there's trouble — loss of appetite — indigestion, nervousness, despondency, headache. But such trouble fly before Dr. King's New Life Pills, the world's best Stomach and Liver remedy. So easy. 25c at Andrews-Schwenk Drug Co.

REPUBLICAN STATE TICKET.

United States Senator—Albert J. Beveridge, Indianapolis.
Secretary of State—Otis E. Gulley, Danville.

Auditor of State—John E. Reed, Muncie.

Treasurer of State—Jonee Monahan, Orleans.

Attorney General—Finley P. Mount, Crawfordsville.

State Geologist—W. S. Blatchley, Terre Haute.

State Statistician—J. L. Peetz, Kokomo.

Judge Supreme Court, Second District—Oscar H. Montgomery, Seymour.

Judge Supreme Court, Third District Robert M. Miller, Franklin.

Judge Appellate Court, First District—Cassius C. Hadley, Danville; Ward H. Watson, Charlestown.

Judges of the Appellate Court, Second District—Daniel W. Comstock, Richmond; Joseph M. Rabb, Williamsport; Harry B. Tuthill, Michigan City.

Newspapers and people who have been working overtime to discover a bad break between Col. Roosevelt and President Taft have not thus far been repaid for their efforts. The Colonel has indorsed numerous important achievements of the administration and now that it seems probable that he and his friends may control the New York convention, an announcement by one of his lieutenants is significant. Mr. Bannard, after a visit to Sagamore Hill, said: "In my opinion the Saratoga convention will adopt a resolution strongly indorsing the administration of President Taft. In accordance with the President's expressed wish, no mention will be made of any renomination in 1912. No opposition to an indorsement of the administration will come from delegates friendly to Mr. Roosevelt."

The Bryan men of Indiana are not pleased with the itinerant the Taggart machine has arranged for the Nebraskan. His first speech is to be made in Burlington which has no railroad and two others are in small towns, Owensville and Edinburg, the former an out of the way place. His other dates announced thus far, it is claimed, are in places where Mr. Bryan can do little harm to the Taggart people if he concludes to go after interests to which they are allied. He is booked for five days in the state and it is claimed a sixth day has been asked for. An Indianapolis correspondent remarks:

In case they succeed it is said they will place the meeting on Weed Patch Hill, Brown county, out of the way of everybody who might by chance be interested.

In his address at the Republican convention in this county James E. Watson correctly stated that the Republican party is a party of construction while the Democratic party is a party of opposition. Every great step in political advancement which has been taken since the time of Lincoln has been proposed by Republican leaders. On the other hand, practically all of these important measures have been fought by Democrats and they have used their influence to defeat them. That the Republican party stands for advancement is shown by the present state platform which advocates the most prominent progressive measures which the public is demanding.

What has become of Bryan's views on political questions? A few years ago he was quoted by every Democratic newspaper in the United States, but now it is seldom that comments are even made on his theories. The political opinions of the "peerless leader" have long ago been found to be faulty, and the Democrats are somewhat reluctant about consenting to his beliefs. The issue of 16 to 1 which he so strongly advocated, stands as a towering monument to his political career.

All pension laws have been enacted by the Republicans. The Democratic party in Congress is controlled by the south and with the dollar a day and other pension legislation pending before Congress, the veterans can not help this year but be interested in the Republican party always their friend, remaining in power.

Quite Amicable.
"Why did you quit your job? Did you have a disagreement with the boss?"
"Oh, no; not at all. I told him I had to have more money or I would quit, and he said it was mutually satisfactory."—Indianapolis News.

Bullock Skin Boats.

There are few more primitive methods of transportation than those in use today by natives of northern India who make their homes in the vicinity of the swift flowing Sutlej. The boats of these aborigines are nothing more or less than bullock skins inflated by the breath of the natives themselves. Two natives may be seen hard at work filling the skins with air. Having inflated them to their satisfaction, they will leap aboard and paddle themselves across the river, great skill and strength being necessary to sustain their equilibrium during the passage. But even should the boats overturn they are easily righted, and the natives are without exception expert swimmers.

The Doctor's Bad Memory.

This story is told of Dr. Pirrie, the great Scottish surgeon, in "Recollections of Fifty Years."

"Once when a lady patient entered his consulting room he received her with effusion, crying:

"My dear madam, I have done nothing else but think over your case. I could not get a wink of sleep all last night for thinking of you!"

"The lady accepted it all as 'gospel truth,' and after some professional questions and answers she innocently remarked:

"Was it not a dreadful thunderstorm last night, Dr. Pirrie?"

"So I am told," he naively answered, "but I'm such a sound sleeper that I didn't hear a clap of it!"

Embarrassing.

The Squire's Pretty Daughter (examining the village school)—Now, children, can you tell me what a miracle is?

The children looked at one another, but remained silent.

"Can no one answer this question?" the new curate asked, who was standing behind the squire's daughter.

A little girl was suddenly struck with a brilliant idea. She held up her hand excitedly.

"Well, Nellie?" the squire's daughter asked, smiling approvingly.

"Please, miss," the small child replied breathlessly, "mother says 'twill be a miracle if you don't marry the new curate!"—London Globe.

While the traction car, on the I. & L. was waiting at the Chestnut street crossing Thursday evening while the derailed cars were being replaced on the track, some one found great amusement in pulling the whistle cord. Persons in the central part of the city who did not know of the wreck, thought that it was a fire signal and many inquired at the telephone exchange to find the location of the fire.

A Great Player.

Sir Walter Parratt had an extraordinary memory. Some eight or ten men were assembled one evening in one of the lodges attached to St. Michael's college, Tenbury. Sir Walter Parratt and Herr von Holst played in turn upon the piano such music as was asked for. This went on for some time until at last the chessboard was brought out. Sir Walter then proposed to play two men at chess in consultation, still remaining at the piano and playing from memory what was demanded either from Bach, Beethoven, Mozart, Chopin or Mendelssohn. Without even a glance at the chessboard he won the game in an hour.—London Globe.

Not Related.

A workman was suing the Swift Packing company in a Kansas City court.

A colored witness was called. "Did you work at the plant?" he was asked.

"Yassir."

"Do you know the foreman and the other officers?"

"Yassir."

"What were your relations with them?"

"Now, look here," said the witness, "I'm black and they's white. They ain't no relations of mine."—Cleveland Leader.

"Goodmen" and "Goodwomen."

A pleasing form of address that was common in the seventeenth century has gone quite out of use, probably because of its restriction to "inferior persons." The "Mr." was then a prefix to which only gentlemen were entitled, and among the puritan fathers of New England the deprivation of the right to be so addressed was inflicted as a punishment. "Goodman" or "Goodwoman," by contraction "Goody," was the address of those low in the social scale. The term is preserved in some old songs. — London Family Herald.

A House in the Air.

In 1863 a balloon of 200,000 cubic feet capacity was constructed at Paris. It was named the Giant and was intended to show the great possibilities of the air. The car attached consisted of a small two story house, fitted with every modern comfort, lavatories, dining room, bedroom, kitchen, parlor, etc. Thirteen passengers made the first ascent, but the journey was of only four hours' duration. The last ascent was for seventeen hours and was abruptly terminated by a high wind, which, when the balloon descended, dragged the little house bumping over the ground. The remains of this giant of the air was for a long time exhibited in the Crystal palace in London.

All He Wanted.

Carl Schurz was dining one night with a man who had written a book of poems, so called, and who was pleased with himself.

The poet was discoursing on the time worn topic of politics and of the men who take office.

"I consider politics and politicians beneath my notice," he said. "I do not care for office. I wouldn't be a senator or a cabinet minister, and I doubt if I could be tempted by the offer of the presidency. For the matter of that, I would rather be known as a third rate poet than as a first class statesman."

"Well, aren't you?" Schurz shouted at him.—Saturday Evening Post.

Origin of Spoons.

Two natural objects seem to have furnished the model for the spoon to primitive man—the river or sea shell and the leaf of plants. In southern China shell spoons are still used that are closely reproduced in the familiar porcelain spoon of that country, while metal spoons are found in India on which are reproduced even the veins of the leaves from which they were copied.

MAINE RESULTS

Democrats See Sweep of Nation In Congressional Elections, but Republicans Ascribe Big Upheaval to Local Conditions.

By J. A. EDGERTON.

AFTER hearing the news from Maine Champ Clark was so certain of being the next speaker of the house that he said when he was elected he would drive a team of Missouri mules to and from the capitol. Even so, he might find driving Missouri mules easier than riding the Democratic donkey. It has been known to throw a number of men in the mud. There is Brother Bryan. Champ should not count his chickens before they are hatched or his speakership mules before they are harnessed.

The Maine Republicans say the state went Democratic because the people were tired of prohibition. Evidently they were tired of something. It took them a long time to get that way, but when they did catch the weary feeling they had it good and hard.

The Maine election makes us recast our political horoscopes. In fact, every election that comes along knocks all the political prophets seven ways. To prognosticate on elections it is necessary that conditions stay put. In these days of disappearing majorities and insurgent overturnings nobody knows what to expect. Ordinarily one of these September elections tells us the direction of the political wind. But this is not a wind. It is a cyclone. Who is going to tell the direction of a breeze that is blowing in all directions at once?

Political Gales Grow Fiercer.

One day Kansas goes insurgent, the next California makes scrap iron out of the Southern Pacific political machine, and on the third day comes a killing frost in Maine. Later events make it appear that Senator Eugene Hale did not merely retire. He retreated to the cyclone cellar. Those who said the withdrawals of Aldrich and Hale were not in good faith can no longer make that charge against the Maine senator. The people of his state have given bond that Hale meant just what he said. Think of a Democratic senator from Maine! After that the bottom will fall out and the world will come to an end.

The Maine Republicans managed to save two congressmen from the wreck, but these two were so nearly blown away with the rest of the debris that they will not get over the shock for years. One of them is Asher C. Hinds, who has been the assistant speaker of the house ever since the days of Tom Reed. Officially Hinds has been known as the clerk at the speaker's desk. Unofficially he is the real speaker, so far as parliamentary law goes. He has studied all the parliamentary precedents from Julius Caesar down and has written a modest little work of eight volumes on the subject, which is a textbook for all the parliamentary sharps in congress and the various legislatures.

Last winter when the insurgents were talking about leading Uncle Joe Cannon up to the top of the capitol and pushing him off there was a proposal to take all political power from the speaker and elect Hinds to the chair as a nonpartisan. The mere fact that Hinds was not then a member of congress did not worry them, although no one but a member had ever been elected to the position. There is no specific requirement in the constitution that the speaker be a member. So far as that honorable document is concerned he may be a constable at Scroggs Center or a bank clerk at Podunk.

Hinds Takes the Hint.

Precedent is a mighty thing in congress, however, or is at least where it does not interfere with the interests. So Asher Hinds concluded he wanted to be a real full fledged member of the house that he had presided over by proxy so long. To gratify his ambition he had to beat Colonel Hale, son of the Hon. Eugene Hale, for the nomination and then to defeat a Democrat for the election. The first task he only accomplished after Colonel Hale had almost whipped an editor, and the second he got through by the skin of his teeth. Evidently Mr. Hinds has concluded that it is easier to give the house parliamentary points than it is to break into the body itself.

There is no doubt that he would make a fine speaker, but no sooner does he get in line for the place than he is met with the boast of Champ Clark and his Missouri mules. The Hon. Champ might have been willing enough to help elect a nonpartisan speaker while the Republicans had a majority, but will he show the same spirit if the shoe should be on the other foot? No, nay, Asher; you have another guess coming.

If the next house is Democratic, Mr. Clark proposes that the big noise shall be a partisan of the Missouri brand. The man he has in mind hails from Pike county, has a large, open countenance that reaches nearly to the back of his head and possesses an ability to quote Scripture. That last seems to be a necessary qualification for the speakership, since Uncle Joe can also quote Scripture either forward or backward.

Asher Hinds is also a bald faced man who has little more hair than Clark

Newspaper Veteran Loses.

One of the Maine representatives who will not come back is Edwin C. Burleigh, likewise a newspaper man, the publisher of the Kennebec Journal. Maine, being a brainy state, appreciates her newspaper men. James G. Blaine was one of them. Some other states that have not so much brains—but why make invidious comparisons? Returning to Burleigh, it is whispered that he has been the real boss of Maine. Outside of the state that role was usually ascribed to Hale, but Burleigh evidently did not care who was thought the boss outside of the state so long as he was the boss inside it. It is also whispered that the real reason Hale withdrew from the senate was that Burleigh told him the game was up.

Burleigh can afford to retire since he is nearly seventy years old. He has been state treasurer and governor of Maine and has been in congress for nearly fifteen years. He was beaten for re-election by something over 2,000. They do things in no half hearted manner in the Pine Tree State. When the voters got ready to dump the dominant machine they did it with enough emphasis to leave no doubt of their intentions.

Democrats Predict Sweep.

What is the significance of the Maine election for the country at large? The Democrats are naturally "some tickled" and are burning bonfires in advance. The Republicans reply that their opponents usually carry the elections—about two months before the dates.

However, most of the Republican statesmen are frank and admit that they are not hilariously happy over the Maine result. Coming so close after the special elections in Missouri, Massachusetts and New York and the slump in Vermont, it seems to indicate a general trend. Even though local conditions may have been a determining factor they could not have been responsible for all of the change. Likewise the Maine election is not only an indication, but will itself become an active influence. Those voters who go with the crowd and who rush to be on the winning side may conclude that Champ Clark and his mule team are leading the winning procession and fall in line.

In their jubiliations Alton B. Parker and other Democratic statesmen ascribed the Maine earthquake to Roosevelt's speeches. Why not charge it to Peary or Dr. Cook? Were the special elections in Massachusetts and New York, which were held before the colonel emerged from the African jungle, also chargeable to Teddy? The goose bone prophets are predicting a long, hard winter, and I presume that somebody will say Roosevelt is responsible.

Insurgents Big Factor.

There is now a trifle over forty Republican majority in the house. A change of twenty-five would give the body to the Democrats. Two of the twenty-five have already been elected in Maine. Chairman Lloyd of the Democratic congressional committee counts on making up the balance, with a considerable margin to spare, in the east and central west.

There is one factor that enters into the situation, however, that should not be neglected. The progressive Republicans have been making gains throughout the country. Already they have supplanted enough regulars by their own nominees to increase their total membership of simon pure progressives to something like fifty. In addition, there are a number of regulars who have declared against Cannon. The insurgents claim that their successes will stem the Democratic tide. How much there may be in the claim is largely a matter of opinion since no election has yet been held in which a progressive Republican was pitted against a Democrat.

As matters now stand the progressives have most of the congressional nominees west of Ohio, the regulars controlling the bulk of those in the Buckeye State and east of it. Granting that the Democrats make no gains in insurgent territory, can they pick off enough men in the northeast to give them a majority? Champ Clark, still thinking of those mules, says yes. Cannon says—but it is not printable.

All this is the merest speculation, however. Conditions are so unsettled that almost anything is possible, even to the formation of a new party. The only things that seem certain in the house election are that Uncle Joe's speakership candidacy is not very promising and that the Democrats alone or the Democrats and progressives together will control the body by a larger margin than at present.

James E. Watson of Indiana, former Republican whip of the house, is reported to be pessimistic to the extent of predicting that the Democrats will have thirty majority. Watson is alleged

TO MAKE PUFF PASTE.

Make It by These Rules and It Will Be Fine.

Puff paste should never be called by its christened name unless it is deserving of the title. It should be as light as air and melt in the mouth like a snowflake on the river. It has been supposed to be indigestible, but when it is light and dry and flaky it is perfectly safe to be eaten. It is only the soggy, heavy pastry that refuses to be separated by the gastric fluids and becomes like lead in the stomach in a very short time. Puff paste is not often a success the first time it is made. It requires practice to make it well and a certain light touch which only practice brings. If the young housekeeper makes her paste according to this recipe she will find it an excellent one:

One pint of good butter, one quart of flour, sifted; three-quarters of a teaspoonful of salt and a teaspoonful of ice water. Chill a mixing bowl with cold water. Wash the butter in cold water by working it with a spoon until it is soft. Divide it into four parts, roll in a napkin and put it on ice. Mix the flour and salt together and gradually mix in one part of the butter. Some people use their hands, while other people mix it with a spoon or knife. When the butter and flour are well mixed pour in the ice water very slowly. Do not stir the pastry, but cut it with the knife until the water is absorbed. Sprinkle the rolling board with a little flour, toss the ball of paste on with the knife and then pat with the rolling pin until it is quite flat and about an inch thick. Roll very lightly and quickly the whole length of the paste at every stroke.

When the paste is rolled out lay one of the quarters of butter in a little flour and roll into a long thin piece and fold it into the pastry. Pound it lightly into a flat cake and roll again. Repeat with the rest of the butter, putting in a quarter each time and patting it and rolling it deftly and quickly. When the butter is all rolled in the pastry may be patted and rolled as often as your strength will permit.

Each time the paste is folded over the butter a small bubble of air is folded in, and this does not escape unless the pastry is patted down. The motion for rolling should therefore be very light indeed and always away from you. The folding and rolling should continue until all streaks of butter are absorbed. Always put the puff paste on the ice to harden before it is baked. It should be very cold when it is put into the oven.

A Gas Stove Economy.

The gas stove need not cause alarming bills if carefully managed. All depends upon the watchfulness of the cook.

Burners should not be lighted until just ready for use and should be turned down as soon as the article cooking is at boiling point.

Eliminate the giant burner as far as possible and keep things hot on the simmerer rather than with larger burners turned low.

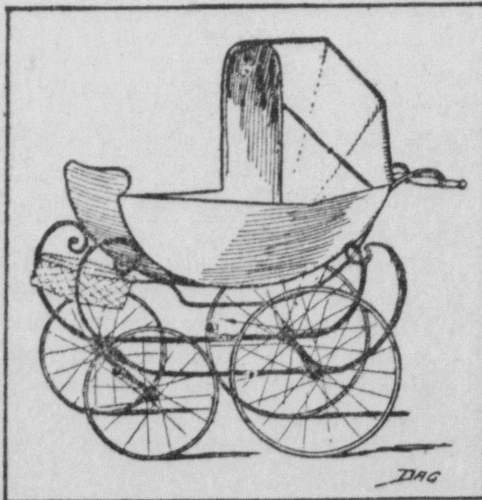

Have composite utensils that fit on one burner. A small oven over one burner saves gas, and if a sheet iron is made to fit over the top of the gas stove it can be heated enough to cook a whole dinner by lighting but one burner.

To Fit Sleeve Easily.

To fit the sleeves of fine lingerie blouses so that they will look neat and at the same time feel comfortable is a difficult task, especially when the material is very sheer. The one seam model is usually chosen, with the result that the sleeve is one of two things at the elbow—either it is tight and uncomfortable, which, of course, lessens the wear, or else it is baggy and unsightly. To hit the happy medium first put on the waist and then mark where the wrinkles come when the arm is bent. At this point set in a group of fine pin tucks, running two or three inches on either side of the seam.

Killing Two Birds With Same Stone.

When purchasing baby's carriage we considered her comfort only, said a young mother recently in Good Housekeeping, and chose a high perambulator without the convenient "boot" for stowing parcels. As baby's daily airing is frequently a trip to market with mother, I supplied the need of a parcel carrier by purchasing a market basket.

A-MARKETING WITH BABY.

ket fourteen inches long, nine inches wide and six inches deep. I had the handles removed, and the harness maker placed two bits of strap with a buckle on the rim on one side so that I could place my basket on the gear of the buggy beneath the bed and by means of the strap secure it to the springs in front. The basket was stained a dark green to match the carriage, so that it is not unsightly, and even if it were I should be tempted to cling to it because it is so very convenient when necessary and removable when not necessary.

HERE'S A NOVEL IDEA.

Stamp Calendars For Christmas Presents.

The very ingenious calendar shown here is formed of nothing more or less than canceled postage stamps. The method of its making is as follows:

Cut out of stiff white paper the shape of a butterfly, about two-thirds the size of your finished calendar. On this paste in rows, as shown, the stamps, which have been covered first with mucilage and plaited in two or three folds. A variety of colors may be secured here by using, for instance, red two cent stamps with a few green one cent ones in the middle of each wing, or green with a red at the tips, or a spot or two of some other color.

The antennae are formed of strips cut from the edge of a stamp, the body of pinched brown stamps, torn a bit in the center and then squeezed into shape. The lowest part of the body is a plain oval cut from a heavily canceled stamp.

The calendar portion, which is perpetual, is composed of three strips of satin ribbon about an inch wide, in a color harmonizing with that of the stamps, pasted to the paper butterfly foundation. On the first typewriter or print the days of the week, on the second the months of the year and on the third the numbers from 1 to 31. Then cut two parallel slits of the right size in round revenue or envelope stamps and use these as slides to show the date. If you wish you can make a fourth ribbon with the year dates, from the present to as far as you care to go.

A loop and bow of baby ribbon in the same color, also pasted to the paper backing, will give the finishing touch, affording a means of hanging up the calendar.

It is important to use strong mucilage, but not glue, which is too heavy. Keep the work clean and dry. The beauty of this lies in its delicate workmanship. It is really a very pretty little thing and certainly everlastingly useful.

Besides, it is a way to use the old stamps that so accumulate in every household. Try making other articles on the same principle—picture frames, wall pockets, etc. The work is easy and fascinating.

Get a "Step Saver."

One of the greatest aids and "step savers" for the woman who does her own work is a wheel tray.

Its cost represents not more than you'd have to pay a domestic for two or three weeks.

The advantage of this helper is that it is always ready, never wants "an evening off," never argues, never sulks and is always "Bridget on the spot," if we may be permitted to use this adaptation of the well known phrase.

Ten dollars for the wheel tray will save you hundreds of dollars' worth of labor, worry and time. Those who have used it say they cannot now get along without it.

It will last for years, has no breakable or intricate parts and glides about like a silent, well trained butler.

In addition to its help in kitchen and dining room, some use it sweeping days, taking the small articles out of a room before sweeping. It saves many steps in one home in distributing the freshly ironed clothes to their respective bureau drawers.

"That Gone Feeling."

Are you a stickler for rules who neglects to pay attention to "that gone feeling"? If so you are laying up for yourself seeds of dyspepsia that will mean horrifying doctor bills.

Are you one of the theorists who attributes to indigestion this feeling, as if the front walls of one's body had taken a notion to visit the backbone? You may not yet be the dyspeptic proper, but you are taking the surest way to let nervous dyspepsia get hold of you.

When you get the "gone feeling" in midmorning or midafternoon or whenever it happens along get yourself a little food. If you wait until your regular mealtime you are courting indigestion by taking food on a stomach too empty to digest it.

If mothers and schoolteachers understood the "gone feeling" signal less discipline would be necessary. Children are cross because they are weak, weak because they are hungry. Instead of discouraging the between meal "snack" it is often necessary to good health and a peaceful disposition.

DOCTOR ADVISED OPERATION

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Galena, Kans.—"A year ago last March I fell, and a few days after there was soreness in my right side. In a short time a bunch came and it bothered me so much at night I could not sleep. It kept growing larger and by fall it was as large as a hen's egg. I could not go to bed without a hot water bottle applied to that side. I had one of the best doctors in Kansas and he told my husband that I would have to be operated on as it was something like a tumor caused by a rupture. I wrote to you for advice and you told me not to get discouraged but to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did take it and soon the lump in my side broke and passed away."—Mrs. R. R. HUEY, 713 Mineral Ave., Galena, Kans.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has proved to be the most successful remedy for curing the worst forms of female ills, including displacements, inflammation, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, and nervous prostration. It costs but a trifle to try it, and the result has been worth millions to many suffering women.

If you want special advice write for it to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. It is free and always helpful.

Speaker and Speakers.

There is a tale to the effect that while Hon. Thomas Brackett Reed wielded the gavel in congress a gentleman took his little boy to the gallery of the house of representatives. Looking down upon the more numerous branch of the federal legislature, the child asked, "Father, who is that large man sitting in the pulpit with a mallet in his hand?"

"He, my son," replied the fond parent, "is the house of representatives."

"And who are those other men sitting in semicircles around him?" inquired the tiny chap.

"They are the speakers of the house of representatives," answered paternalist.

Tosti's Thanks.

Signor Francisco Tosti, the famous song writer, is very impulsive and quick to resist the slightest assumption of patronage. One day a lady called on him and announced her intention of singing two of his songs at a concert.

"I thought I would just run round and try them over with you," she said.

Tosti remarked that he was not in the habit of giving lessons in that manner, whereupon the lady retorted:

"Very well; I will not sing your songs then."

Tosti's face beamed as he advanced toward her with outstretched hands.

"Madam," he said, "I thank you very much for that favor."

Sensitive.

"Miss Passay is furious with that society reporter."

"Why so?"

"He published the announcement of her approaching wedding under the column headed 'Late Engagements.'"

BLOOD TROUBLES CONSTITUTIONAL INFECTION

Constitutional Blood Poison is the most insidious of all diseases. It begins in an insignificant manner, usually the appearance of a tiny sore being the only outward evidence of its presence. But down in the blood the treacherous infection is at work, and in a short time its chain of symptoms begin to crop out. The mouth and throat ulcerate, skin eruptions break out, sores and ulcers appear on the body, the glands in the groin swell, and sometimes the hair comes out. Mineral medicines cannot cure Constitutional Blood Poison; they only shut the disease up in the system to smoulder and await an opportunity of breaking out afresh. The only possible way to cure the disease is to REMOVE the germs from the blood. S. S. S. goes into the blood, and while removing the infection makes the blood pure, fresh and healthy. This causes a general rebuilding of the entire system, and when S. S. S. has made a cure there is no return of the hideous symptoms. S. S. S. is made entirely of vegetable matter, containing not the least particle of mineral in any form. It is a perfectly safe medicine and a certain cure for blood poison. We have a Home treatment book which we will be glad to send free to all who write and request it, also any medical advice without charge.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

SEPTEMBER 25, 1910

Temperance Lesson.—Lesson: Galatians 5: 15-26.

GOLDEN TEXT:—If we live in the Spirit, let us also walk in the Spirit. Galatians 5: 25.

What is the use of all our Bible study if it does not assure to us at least three things—salvation and the assurance of it, a daily life to glorify God, a consuming desire to give the gospel to all that Jesus may come again and set up His kingdom. If we take the beginning and end of this epistle we learn that the Lord Jesus Christ gave Himself for our sins that He might deliver us from this present evil world; that in the power of His cross, we being crucified to the world and the world to us, we might live as new creatures (I, 4; vi, 15).

The epistle then covers specially the second of the three things just mentioned, the daily life to God's glory (I, 24). It must be the Son of God revealed in us, not I, but Christ living in me, and never weary in well doing (I, 16; II, 20; vi, 9). This life will not be manifest unless we are clear upon the first topic above mentioned, the assurance of our salvation, wholly upon the ground of Christ's having been made a curse for us and that we by faith in Him are considered as having been crucified with Him and thus redeemed from the curse of the law.

In Romans we learn that we have no righteousness, in I Corinthians that we have no wisdom and in II Corinthians that we have no strength, but that in Christ and in Him alone we have all three, righteousness, wisdom and strength, and all wholly of grace, without any desert on our part or by any works of ours whatever. Now, these Galatians were being taught by false teachers that grace was not sufficient, but that there must be a certain keeping of the law. And Paul tells them that this is not the gospel which he preached to them, but another gospel, a perversion of the gospel of Christ, and that those who give heed to it are fallen from grace; not lost, but losing the joy of that salvation which is wholly of grace (I, 6-9; V, 4).

In Christ not only is there deliverance from the curse of the law, but a freedom in His service which is impossible to those who are working for salvation instead of working because they have salvation as the free gift of God. Oh, how great is the love of Him who gave Himself for our sins! We should meditate upon it and upon Him until we are consumed by it and by it constrained to live wholly for Him. Who shall accomplish this in us? Even the Spirit who is mentioned in the few verses of our lesson seven times. The disciples under the teaching of Christ for two or three years never became what He intended they should be until at Pentecost they were filled with the Spirit. Then we see such a change that even their enemies were compelled to acknowledge that they had been with Jesus. Notice, then, in our lesson that we are to walk in the Spirit, be led of the Spirit and live in the Spirit (16, 18, 25) and manifest the fruit of the Spirit, which is love, joy, peace, long suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance. Each of the eight may be said to be a manifestation of the first, for love covers all, love is the fulfilling of the law (verse 14; Rom. xiii, 10). Some one has said that joy is love exulting, peace is love in repose, and so with all the others, each being some manifestation of love. God is love, and love is kind (I John iv, 8, 16; I Cor. xiii, 4). If love always ruled us, how manifest the life of Jesus would be and how greatly God would be glorified in us! When we remember that the Spirit who dwelleth in us as the children of God yearneth for us even unto jealous envy (Jas. iv, 5, R. V., margin), desireth us far more than we desire Him, what can be the hindrance to the manifestation of this love except the power of the flesh described in our lesson, which remains in every believer and is so directly opposite to all that is of the Spirit? While the work or fruit of the Spirit is summed up in nine all inclusive words, note the seventeen words which describe the works of the flesh, with the concluding expression "and such like," as if they were too numerous to mention.

In I Cor. vi, 9, 10, there are ten forms of flesh manifestation mentioned with the same conclusion as here, "Shall not inherit the kingdom of God," but with the comforting assurance that even such had been washed, sanctified, justified, in the name of the Lord Jesus and by the Spirit of God. If the devil can work such beastly works in a human being, how much more can the Spirit of God work His beautiful works if He is allowed to do so. Hear Paul's cry in Rom. vii, 24: "O wretched man that I am! Who shall deliver me from the body of this death?" or as in the margin, "this body of death." But hear his exultant cry in the next verse, "I thank God, through Jesus Christ our Lord." Then in Rom. vi see how he dwells upon our being crucified with Christ, buried with Him, risen with Him and that now we are to reckon ourselves dead indeed unto sin, but alive unto God, through Jesus Christ our Lord, yielding ourselves unto God as those who are alive from the dead. In the freedom from condemnation and assurance of no separation of Rom. vii we may let the Spirit of Him who raised up Jesus from the dead dwell in us and manifest the life of Jesus in these mortal bodies.

PICTURE POSES.

A Novel Amusement For Week End Visitors—Begin a Set of Torture Books—They're Heaps of Fun—Baked Orris Root.

Dear Elsa—Next week I'm going to send you one of my new photographs, which I think are good because I posed them myself. Conceited remark! Sounds wonderfully like it, but really of the many photographs taken of myself in the course of my life there are but three that were ever considered successful, including this last picture. In all three I chose the background, the dress and the attitude. I do not mind confessing that before I went to be "took" I tried over one or two posing stunts before my glass and said to myself, "Now, if that comes off that will be all right; it will look like me and as I like to look."

The real tragedy, my dear Elsa, lies in the photograph that is like one, but at one's plainest. You know the kind I mean. "Which can I have, dear, the beautiful one or the one as I know you?" That request takes some time to live down, doesn't it?

I'm on the picture rampage today, so you might as well settle down for a dissertation on the subject. As you know, only a few years ago photography was at a shockingly low ebb. Personally I prefer the frank horrors of an earlier decade to those terrors of, say, fifteen years since, which were thought "so artistic," the period when most women were taken in a black picture hat worn with an evening frock and the hat covered with feathers. How ostrich feathers have progressed too! Not long ago I was turning out my feather drawer, and there came to the surface a faithful old friend which I had looked upon as lengthy opulence, a feather I had felt quite orientally magnificent while wearing, but now I put it back with a sigh. One seems to have grown beyond the feathers of yesterday.

But to come back to photography. How many women there are, impelled by the advice of the fashionable photographer, who array themselves for the camera "in the simple little frock," or these men will tell them that the semi-classic is the only gown to be "done in." In my humble opinion this is a great mistake in most instances. It is wonderfully apparent, if one looks about, how few people there are who have good looking arms and still fewer in which the classic dress, unless made and worn by a genius, does not give the wearer a flattened chest and an enlarged waist that result in a masculine type of figure almost comic, while the joints of the shoulder and the wrists and hands seem exaggerated out of all proportion.

With the simple little frock is often seen the careless artistic coiffure. Beware of it unless you have masses of hair which can be parted to roll away in splendid billows, waved or smooth, from the forehead and be knotted in a great lovely "bundle" at the back of the head. The careless coiffure should be careless only in appearance. The effortless effort must be the result of effort. Every flaw shows in a photograph.

I am an admirer of the new style of light background, where the figure is the darkest part of the whole picture, for a really pretty woman can trust her outline. But there are many whose outline is not their strong point.

In days to come if you look over a collection of portraits of lovely women of today I believe you will find those taken with what I have called for years "the Reutlinger background"—he's one of the famous photographers of Paris, who poses all the fashion pictures for smart couturieres—will please you most.

Passing from backgrounds, I have a word to say on attitude. The much photographed are apt to put themselves into the same position when about to be photographed, until it becomes almost a joke. You recall the once beautiful Mrs. K., the pose of whose head set off her classic beauty to perfection—the insolent tilt of the exquisite chin, the half closing of the glorious eyes. Now—well, could she not be done in another attitude? All we see now in her photographs is three chins, none of them exquisite, and eyes once glorious, now slits above—I hate to confess it—encroaching cheeks. The pity of it! It is very difficult to grow old in real life; it is still harder to do so in a photograph. I'm beginning to moralize, so it's time to change the subject, but let me say to the woman ambitious of a good photograph of herself to beware of an easily tired of mode; that is a golden rule.

"Torture Book" and Tattooing Craze.

How does this idea strike you as an amusement for your guests on wet and dull days during week end visits—the "torture book" and the tattooing craze? In the torture book one asks one's friends to draw blindfolded pictures of themselves. The strange notion originated in England, and it is a wary celebrity who can dodge the owners of these books. The keenest rivalry exists between those who possess them as to the interest and importance of the people who figure in their pages, and many a friendship, it is said, has been broken because one woman secured a portrait of Caruso by himself or some other notable. To be strictly correct one must have a whole set of these torture books, five being the magic number. And they may be bound in anything from gold and silver to art embroidery covers.

A confession book is another of the torture series. In this the victim has to set forth the transgressions of his life. But the tattooing requires the most skill, and society women are taking lessons from professionals in the cult. We are strange creatures and crave nowadays novelty as a plaything.

Baked orris root? No; it's not an entire, but a new way of making the perfume of this delicious root lasting when sprinkled among one's belongings. To preserve the odor sprinkle the orris root liberally between sheets of cotton wadding and put the orris sandwich in the oven for a few minutes. This treatment will make the fragrance stay by you, but you must be very careful not to let the wadding remain in the oven too long, else it will burn, and great will be the smell thereof, sure enough. Try the method as a tip from

Milk as a Curative.

In connection with the fasting regimens that are the present fad, much attention is being paid to the curative and nourishing qualities of pure, rich milk.

One physician advised a patient who came to be built up to starve herself for three days, then begin on a milk diet, taking a cupful first four times a day, then every three hours, then every two hours, then every hour until four quarts a day were drunk.

No solid food was taken with this regimen, and, needless to say, the milk must be sipped, not gulped. The milk diet was kept up for four weeks.

Milk is also much used in the cure of nervous disorders. It draws the blood from the head and soothes the nerves of the stomach.

Women who are subject to great strain or who are given to sudden collapses of strength will find hot milk sipped slowly the best sort of stimulant.

If milk fails to digest, which rarely happens when sipped, try putting a little salt or a tablespoonful of lime-water in it. One reason why milk disagrees with some people is that they take it as a beverage instead of as food.

When one is subject to insomnia a cup of hot milk slowly sipped after getting into bed will frequently induce sleep.

Slow sipping of hot milk will often stop paroxysms of coughing when all other remedies have failed.

Know that hot milk is not boiled milk. The latter is injurious.

Get a Mayonnaise Mixer.

And, by the bye, if you have not in your kitchen outfit a mayonnaise mixer do purchase one with your very first "pin money." It will save you many an hour's work and also save in actual cash, in wasted material, to say nothing of the wear upon your disposition, for nothing is quite so provoking as to have your mayonnaise "separate" after all your work. This always happens, too, when the most particular guest is coming and we are anxious to prove our prowess. But with the mayonnaise mixer it does not happen at all. The little "mill" is so constructed that the oil goes in drop by drop as you work the crank, and all ingredients are so gradually brought into contact that harmony is assured. Time was when only chefs or equally great people could afford this contrivance, but it has now been brought within reach of the humble household.

School Apron for Tiny Tot.

Do you remember when you started school with a little red and blue checked apron tied with bows over your shoulders and reaching to the very bottom of your abbreviated skirt? For a long time school children have not known the joys of those aprons, but now they are coming in again, and you may make them for your little daughters even prettier—if that be possible—than the ones you wore yourself.

This model is straight from Paris, so, of course, the hallmark of art is upon it.

The two girls seen in the cut show the front and back of the same apron, a useful and original model. It is equally good in sheer and heavy material and has the added advantage of ironing easily, a blessing for which every mother will be grateful. The model shown here is in light blue linen—not too light, however—scalloped and finished with buttonhole stitch in a darker blue. The straps cross in back and fasten at the shoulders with a big pearl button. The coin dots are worked in over and over stitch.

GERMAN TEA CAKE

Kugelhoff Kuchen Now Served at Smart Five o'Clocks.

A VERY ARTISTIC SALAD.

Pineapple Always Appetizing, and Here Are Attractive Ways of Serving the Fruit That Are Seldom Used by the Cook.

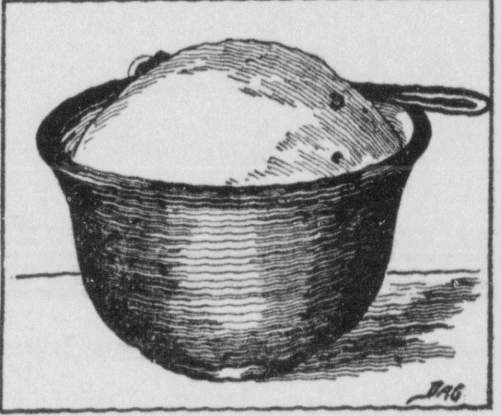

Take one pound of flour (four cups), ten ounces (one cup and a fourth) of butter, two tablespoonfuls of sugar, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, one cake of compressed yeast, two or three KUGELHOFF KUCHEN SLICED AND TOASTED tablespoonfuls of lukewarm water and seven eggs, says the Boston Cooking School Magazine.

Soften the yeast in the water, mix thoroughly and stir in enough of the flour to make a soft dough. Knead the little ball of dough. With a knife slash across it in opposite directions and drop it into a small saucepan of lukewarm water. Put the rest of the flour, the salt, sugar and butter, broken up into bits, into a mixing bowl; add four of the eggs and with the hand work the whole to a smooth consistency; then add the rest of the eggs, one at a time, and continue beating each time until the paste is smooth. When the little ball of sponge has become very light, at least twice its original size, remove it with a skimmer to the egg mixture, add a cup of large raisins from which the seeds have been removed and work the whole together. Let stand to become double in bulk. Cut down and set aside in an ice chest overnight. Shape on a board either into a loaf or buns. When again light and puffy bake in a quick oven. Cut the cake into thick slices.

Toast these over a quick fire, being careful (by not moving the cake while toasting) to retain the lines of the toaster. Spread with butter, sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon mixed and serve at once on a hot napkin. The sugar and cinnamon may be omitted.

An Artistic Salad.

"That is the most artistic looking pineapple salad I have ever seen," said a guest to her hostess. "Most of them look as messy as if they had been gathered from the refuse of plates. How did you ever get the pieces so even?"

"It's the way I cut my pineapple," was the reply. "An old southern cook taught me. Do not part it, but with a fork begin at the lowest row of scales and lift out a chunk of the fruit at a time. Go round the entire melon, then begin at the second row and continue to the top. This removes all the meat save the core.

"When the pieces are out all that is necessary is to cut off the bit of rind and your salad is ready to dress. I leave the pineapple on the ice for two hours before serving.

"At the last I mix with mayonnaise made with lemon and whipped cream and sprinkle the top thickly with paprika to give a touch of color.

Sherbet In Shells.

Pineapple shells are artistic for serving sherbet if a luncheon is not too large. Where the table is crowded use sherbet glasses and put a thin slice of the fresh fruit or a maraschino cherry on each portion.

Pineapple ice has a better flavor if a lemon is used to every quart of sherbet. Pieces of crystallized ginger stirred in just before packing gives a delicious taste.

Curing a Boil.

At the first symptoms of a boil, massage it gently between the thumb and finger. Keep this up for several days and it may go away. Be careful not to bruise the flesh.

At the same time drink plenty of water and take a dose of salts. This has been known to carry off impurities of the blood.

When the boil can no longer be backed to go to a doctor; it saves needless suffering. He will tell you when lancing is necessary and will apply soothing remedies.

An old fashioned but effective home remedy for drawing a boil to a head is to peel the skin from a boiled egg, wet and apply immediately.

If the boils show a tendency to return, take a good blood purifier and keep it up for at least a month.

Another home remedy that has been used on boils with soothing effect before they come to a head is to soak a handful of bird shot in a quart of milk and bathe the boil frequently with the liquid.

COLLARET FOR BLOUSE.

How Black Is Used as an Accessory Touch.

Collarets, with their endless promises of changing the appearance of any blouses with which they are worn, are shown now with a few innovations. They are decidedly different from the frills of lace, linen and embroidery of the summer, for in the great wave of black satin that has swept over Parisian modes the collarets have come under the influence and show in fascinating variety the touch of black.

On the round flat model a band of black satin is used for the straight foundation upon which lace insertion is placed, the ends at the front rounded and separated enough to show the black in delightful contrast. A frill of wide lace is attached to the edge.

The pointed shape shows a little more black. Here the foundation is circular, with a modified line at the front. Ecu valenciennes edges the top, and the insertion edging define the lower line. If you wish you can introduce coin spots of black on the lace by using silk floss in quick, long stitches.

Black satin is used to cover button molds from under which tiny bows peek out toward each side. Three of these form rows on each edge of the square tab of all over lace. The circular collar top is edged with a ruffle of lace that also drops down on each side of the central tab.

The deeper yoke shows a slot arrangement of ribbon on the heavy linen underpiece. Lace is the top decoration, and the eyelets are placed in pairs, allowing the black to appear in long lines on the upper surface. The satin is threaded halfway and continued the remainder of the way after the collar is adjusted. The ends are tied in a stiff bow in front.

Respect Your Furniture.

There is a right and a wrong way to clean furniture, and the correct method is undoubtedly the easier, which is a hopeful message to housekeepers. The flat willow abomination known as a furniture whip should never be allowed to touch stuffed furniture, no matter how cheap the covering, for the only result from its use is irreparable injury.

The dust which sifts through the covering settles in the stuffing, and the sole action of the whip is to bring this dust to the surface in ridges, which all future dusting of the outside fails to remove. Furniture which has been treated in this way on examination will be found to bear dark marks corresponding to the stroke of the whip, and delicate colors, especially in brocatelle, lose their freshness and beauty very soon, not from usage, but from a mistaken idea of their care.

All furniture should be protected from the dust as much as possible. When a room is swept all the lighter articles should be removed and the heavier ones covered closely. A whisk broom and soft cloth should be then employed to remove the particles in the coverings, first a good brushing with the broom, then a thorough wiping with the cloth, which may be dampened if the fabric will stand it.

The woodwork is best cleaned with a paint brush, followed by a damp cloth. The dust which sifts through to the stuffing and springs never shows itself, and, while some superfine housekeepers may object that to leave it undisturbed is uncleanly and unhealthy, yet all the whipping in the world would remove but a tithe of what is inside, besides marking the covering forever.

When Boiling Milk.

The one sure way to count on heating milk correctly is to cook it in a double boiler. It takes longer, but the possibility of scorching is eliminated.

Such boilers are now so cheap as to be within reach of most housekeepers. But if cost must be considered a small saucepan inside a larger one answers every purpose.

As most of us know how quickly milk burns when heating, it is well to know what to do when such calamity overtakes us and there is no time or no milk to begin over again.

Remove the pan quickly from the stove and stand it in a bowl of cold water. Add a pinch of salt and stir well. While this may not entirely destroy the scorched taste, it lessens it, so that it can scarcely be detected.

A Fashion Chat on Dress for Young Girls.

Furnished by Pictorial Review
853 Broadway, New York City.

It is an understood fact that no other gowns receive such hard and constant wear as girls' school frocks. They are worn day in and day out and for this very reason should be made of good, serviceable material and in simple, girlish style.

Gowns of one material throughout made somewhat on the order of shirtwaist dresses are far more fashionable than any separate shirtwaist or skirt combination. However, as serges and chevots are so much in vogue this season, especially for everyday wear, a suit of this material should have a waist of the cloth itself provided for it and one of foulard or crepe de chine for the warmer days when a cloth waist is out of the question for indoors.

Foulard might seem extravagant for a school waist but it wears excellently and can be cleaned and even washed frequently.

A large number of costumes for the young girl show the Russian blouse influence whether it be displayed in the coat or the dress. This style though seemingly difficult to make is really very simple. They can be made in two pieces and joined under the belt or fashioned as a one-piece frock. A plain Russian blouse dress in serge or chevot is very smart and much in demand for school wear.

The return of the Gibson and side effect in waists and dresses is gladly welcomed. There has never been a more becoming style for young girls and with it comes the frill which lends such attractiveness to the costume.

With growing girls it is seldom feasible to make their dresses or suits last more than one year. Therefore, it does not pay to buy too expensive materials and trimmings. At this time of the year winter materials are offered regardless of cost and it would be wise to put away these materials for next winter wear. Serges, chevots, flannels, etc., are always in good style. Lightweight cloths and thinner fabrics for spring wear can be had at prices so reasonable that it would be almost wrong to pass them by.

Pongees, cashmeres, voiles and like materials are used for dresses worn Saturdays, Sundays and other holidays. They can be handsomely braided or embroidered and are made much on the style that is worn by older girls.

The suits pictured here are unquestionably well suited for the school girl.

exceptionally good and out of the ordinary. The coat and skirt sizes are 12, 14 and 16 years and the entire costume in medium size requires 5 yards of 54-inch material.

No. 3064 could not be simpler in style. It would make up nicely in almost any kind of material, and is trimmed with braiding design No. 11255 (price 25 cents). Its sizes are 12, 14 and 16 years and size 14 requires 4 yards of 54-inch material.

The price of these designs, including cutting and construction guides, is 15 cents each number.

STATE MAKING CLOSE INQUIRY

Responsibility for Kingsland
Wreck to Be Located.

RUNNING ORDEP'S ARE MISSING

Copies of the Interurban Train Dispatcher's Orders, Carried by Motorman and Conductor of the Special Car Have Not Yet Been Found—State Railway Commission Will Carry Inquiry to Highest Officers.

Indianapolis, Sept. 23.—Acting under orders from Governor Marshall, Alexander Shane, chief inspector of the Indiana state railway commission, has put the officials of the Fort Wayne & Wabash Valley Traction company through a thorough examination in an effort to fix the responsibility for Wednesday's wreck at Kingsland. While the traction officials are placing the blame directly upon the shoulders of Motorman Corkwell and Conductor Wilson of the special car, the blame cannot be definitely fixed until the copies of the interurban train dispatcher's orders, carried by Motorman Corkwell, who is dying in the hospital, are found. Corkwell and the conductor both carried the train orders in their pockets, but so far Shane and General Manager C. D. Emmons of the traction company have failed to find these orders, although they have made an exhaustive search for them.

General Manager Emmons told Inspector Shane the order issued to the conductor and motorman was exceedingly simple and merely ordered the crew of the special to run to Bluffton as a special train. Chairman Wood of the commission said that the investigation will not stop short of the highest officer of the company.

FURTHER DETAILS

Story of the Only Passenger That Escaped Without a Bruise.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Sept. 23.—The death list as a result of the traction car wreck at Kingsland Wednesday was brought up to forty with the death of Frederick Jones of Warren, Ind. He is a son of President L. C. Jones of the Warren bank. Among the victims was Miss Pearl Saylor, daughter of Mrs. Clara Saylor of Bluffton and a sister of J. B. Saylor, the Watseka (Ill.) banker who was shot and killed by Dr. W. R. Miller a year or so ago.

Of the injured, F. A. Parkhurst, a Bluffton baker, has a broken back and is paralyzed from the neck down. Parkhurst says he was standing on the rear of the local car, as he was unable to get inside because of the crowded aisle. He realized that there would be a wreck just a few seconds before the smash, and he tried to get off the platform. It was impossible, however, and he says he was thrown against the roof of the car and discovered himself later with several persons piled on top of him. His doctors believe he cannot live.

Another whose life is in doubt is Miss Margaret Tribolet, daughter of J. W. Tribolet of Bluffton, as she has a fracture at the base of the skull. J. R. Boyd of Marion, Ind., doubtless was the only passenger on the local car who escaped without a bruise. Mr. Boyd was the last passenger to get aboard the car at Bluffton, where a large number of people on their way to the Fort Wayne fair had taken passage. The passengers were packed tightly in the rear of the car, and it was some little time after the car started before Mr. Boyd got above the steps on the rear platform.

"After we had passed Kingsland and were rounding a curve," said he, "I swung out over the steps and got a long view ahead. Probably a distance of 200 yards from us was the limited, bearing down at terrific speed. We were then going about fifteen miles an hour. I thought there would be a switch track into which we would run, but could see none, and then it appeared to me that the motorman of the local car saw the approaching collision and lost his head. Our car suddenly gave a lunge forward. Our speed increased to fully twenty-five miles an hour at once. The limited, bearing down on us at a rate of forty miles an hour, loomed up not 100 feet away. I saw what was coming and dropped off. It saved my life, undoubtedly."

Considers Incident Closed.

Oyster Bay, Sept. 23.—Mr. Roosevelt was not greatly disturbed by the letters that Mrs. Bellamy Storer published. He thinks the affair has been cleared up so far as he is concerned. "I have no desire to enter into further controversy with Mrs. Storer," he said.

Hold-Up Men's Rich Haul.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—Search is being made for the two hold-up men who are said to have in their possession $10,000 in cash and a large diamond stud valued at $500, of which Harry W. Chatin and his brother Max, wholesale tobacco merchants of Pittsburgh, say they were robbed on the street.

NO PENSIONS OF A DOLLAR A DAY

Grand Army Committee Says
Plan Would Cost too Much.

MADE AN ADVERSE REPORT

On the Ground That the Dollar-a-Day Pension Proposal Would Be Too Expensive to the Government, Pensions Committee of the G. A. R. Condemns Plan, but Makes Recommendation to Increase Pensions of Widows.

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 23.—John E. Gilman of Boston was elected commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic for the coming year. John McElroy of Washington, D. C., was the only other candidate, and he withdrew his name before the balloting began. Charles Burton of New Jersey was elected senior vice commander-in-chief, and William James of Jacksonville, Fla., was chosen junior vice commander-in-chief.

Colonel Gilman was a member of the fighting Twelfth Massachusetts infantry, enlisting at a tender age after he had run away from home. The colonel of his regiment was Fletcher Webster, son of Daniel Webster. The bloodiest engagement of his enlistment was at Antietam, where 80 per cent of the men were either killed outright or mortally wounded. He was at the front most of the many days of fighting at Gettysburg, and only laid down his gun when one of his arms was blown off by a rebel shell.

The pensions committee made a report condemning the plan that congress grant each Union veteran of the civil war a pension of at least $1 a day for life. The committee made the adverse report on the ground that such a pension list would be too expensive to the government. The report recommends that the widows of veterans be given an increased pension, and also advocates that the pensions of veterans above the age of seventy years be increased.

Rochester, N. Y., will in all probability be the next encampment site of the Grand army. The veterans voted to go there if suitable railroad rates can be had. Los Angeles, Cal., put up a good fight for the 1911 meet.

STATE CONVENTION

Republicans of Illinois Gather to Name
Ticket Today.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 23.—Governor Deneen was temporary chairman of the Republican state convention which met here at noon today, and may preside throughout the proceedings. It is more distinctly a Deneen convention than any which has been held since he first was elected governor six years ago, and the executive's wishes are likely to prevail in the work that is done.

As temporary chairman the governor sounded the keynote of the Republican campaign. His address was a composite reflection of the views he expressed during the primary campaign. He occupied progressive ground, advising harmony among all Republicans on national matters, but was outspoken and plain in what he had to say of bipartisanship in the legislature. In the platform there was an endorsement of President Taft and of the commission idea of tariff revision and a carefully worded commendation of the Republican congressmen from this state.

THE SCOTTISH RITE IS HAVING TROUBLE

Cause of Grand Commander's
Resignation a Secret.

Detroit, Sept. 23.—For some reason which is guarded by absolute secrecy, General Samuel Crocker Lawrence, most puissant grand commander of the Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite for the northern Masonic jurisdiction of the United States, has resigned his office. The session at which the resignation was handed in was the last of the 98th annual meeting of the supreme council sovereign grand inspectors general. The grand commander is the head of the highest degree in Masonry.

The session of the supreme council had been long, and it was evident even before the resignation of the grand commander was announced, that harmony was not prevalent. There was no intimation when the council first met, however, that trouble was coming, so it is thought that whatever the trouble was it came up during this meeting. Puissant Lieutenant Commander Barton Sitt of Toledo succeeds to the office left vacant by General Lawrence's resignation.

DECLINES TO TALK

Archbishop Ireland Thinks Too Much
Has Already Been Said.

Omaha, Sept. 23.—Archbishop Ireland, who arrived in this city from St. Paul with Cardinal Vannutelli and his party, declined absolutely to make any comment upon the letters which Mrs. Bellamy Storer furnished the Springfield Republican. The archbishop, when shown the report containing the latest letters made public by Mrs. Storer, said:

"Please say the archbishop says he has nothing to give out on the matter. Say this and nothing more."

He intimated, however, that too much has already been said, and he does not want to be implicated in any controversy which might arise. Cardinal Vannutelli was asked his opinion of Roosevelt. He made a quick gesture and said: "Colonel Roosevelt? Colonel Roosevelt? Ah, yes. Your ex-president. I do not know Mr. Roosevelt. I never met him in my life. In fact, I do not think I ever heard of him except a very few times. I scarcely knew who he was until I came to this country two weeks ago."
